COME TO TORONTO FOR THE
ASQ INNOVATION
CONFERENCE

Saturday, September 20, 2014

Keynote: Mike Docherty
International Plaza Hotel Toronto Airport

Innovation is today where quality management was 25 years ago. It is often confined to a small group of people in your organization—these great ideas and useful approaches are not always well publicized and do not always engage all of your people. Innovation can also mean different things to different people.

To be successful, innovation—like quality—needs to engage everyone. To consolidate the Innovation Body of Knowledge, the Innovation Interest Group is tapping a wide range of innovation thought leaders and practice leaders to find what works well, how success has been generated, and how successful approaches can be employed more widely. Not every method will work well for everybody, but there will be tools and techniques that you can use in your own work environment.

Using an exciting slate of speakers whose range of innovation topics includes:

• Culture
• Managing Innovation
• Process
• Quality to Innovation Pathway
• Stats and Innovation
• Innovation in an established organization

Conference Rates:

Mike Docherty is a leading innovation expert with experience from senior-level corporate leadership, consulting, startups, and venture capital. He has managed several venture-backed startups, including Third Screen Marketplace, a Cincinnati, OH-based mobile technology innovation network. Docherty was also president of Spencer Trask, the venture capital firm behind leading collaborative innovation platforms including InnoCentive, inno360, and others.

New Sources of Growth Through Innovation
Docherty helps the audience understand there are many levels of innovation, from sustaining to breakthrough. And innovation isn’t just about products. It applies to business models, processes, and even distribution. In this presentation, he helps business leaders develop a better understanding of how to use sustaining innovation to protect and defend today’s core business, while simultaneously exploring breakthrough innovations that can create entirely new platforms of growth for the company.

Spend a weekend in Toronto and get lots of new and innovative ideas!
